THE GROWTH OF NATIONS. - A terrible outcry has been raised against the enterprise of Walker In Nicaragua, and that notorious if not famous adventurer has been handed over to the general scorn by three-fourths of the virtue and intelligence of the country. But undoubtedly this decided portion of our circuit virtue and intelligence is a vast deal rupulous than thoughtful. It is abundantly squeamish but not particularly discerning. A moment's reflection may serve to show that both Walker and his enterprise have been stupidly misconceived.

We say nothing of Walker's motives in entering Nicaragua, except that they were not necessarily selfish, and may have been entirely disinterested; but, whatever his motives were or now are, he is manifestly no mere vulgar brigand, and his enterprise no ordinary scheme of lawless outrage and pillage. It is not an affair of pure individual aggrandizement. Its probable consequences lift it out of this category. It is something quite superior to that volatile, but powerful people. even the most respectable type of fillibusterism. It is, in fact, nothing less than oue of those endless offshoots of the Caucasian stock, which, from the beginning of history, have formed the rudiments of but a dozen lectures upon the theme of last evening. nations. This may seem, at first glance, a little far-fetched; but a second and narrower glance will vindicate its justness.

The white race is indisputably the dominant race of the globe. Wherever it exists it is supreme, and wherever it goes it conquers. Its abode is the seat of dominion, and its path is the path of empire. Its abounding and invincible vitality subdues and assimilates the inferior races as rendily as the individual does the fruits of the field. It is the central and controlling force of humanity. It kindles the aspirations, impels the progress, and shapes the destinies of mankind. Sovereign its relations, it is the germ and quickening principle of nations. It is, indeed, the indispensable condition of national growth. There can be no such thing as a nation without it. The aboriginal or quasi-aboriginal races are of themselves everywhere positively incapable of rising to the dignity of nationalness. Beyond certain very contracted limits, they are as helpless as oysters or polyps. A nation can no more spring up spontaneously out of these inferior races than a tree can spring up spontaneously out of the earth. In either case a germinal principle is essential, and in the former it is supplied only by the white race.

That race, however, is always ready to supply national cuttings. It is prolific and exhaustless. In all quarters and ages of the world it has propagated natious, and everywhere by substantially the same process. It puts forth a band of hardy spirits, the shoot of its own vigorous stock, that, in any given locality, mingles with the native races, supplants or subdues them, and, in the course of time, by the sheer force of its imperishable vitality, grows into a nation. The process is hardly less marvellous than the result, but it is nevertheless incontrovertible. Both history and tradition attest its reality. In this manner the splendid natious of antiquity arose, as also the great nations of modern times. It is the invariable process of national growth. It is the law of public development. The idea of a nation's resulting from a voluntary contract between the members of a single inferior race is utterly fanciful. Such a phenomenon never existed, except in the brains of theorists. It is a moral impossibility. A nation is the result of the opposition and confilct of races. A superior and an inferior, or, which is the same thing, a conquering and a conquered sice, are all but as necessary to its forma-tion as the ego and non-ego of the metaphysicians are to an act of conscionsness. They constitute the condition of its origin and growth.

In compliance with this law, we ourselves have grown into a nation, and we see it forcibly illustrated at the present moment by struggling com-Africa, in Australasia, in South America, in Mex- under the new Administration.

ico, in the Islands of the Sea, and, last though not least, in Central America. The enterpris of Walker is, in truth, but an offshoot of eivilization, planted by a bold hand in one of the most beautiful and teeming regions of the earth. Those who sneer at it or condemn it as a naked scheme of plunder are condemning the law of human progress and sneering at the truths of history. They are too delicate by half. They would do well to put their fastidions spirits through a course of historic sprouts. Certainly, as compared with the incursions, invasions, iuroads, irruptions, and immigrations out of this evening. She is an excellent boat and has which the nations of the past and present have good accommodations. We are indebted to Mr. arisen, the enterprise of Walker is a very model of Frank Smith for the usual favors. heroic philauthropy. If our dainty pseudo-conservatives can swallow the camels of history, we see no reason why they should strain at the gnat in Nicaragua. We beg them at all events to be easy, and not make themselves ridiculous by going into clonic spasms over the monsters of their own fancies. We implore them especially, before they expend any more virtuous indignation upon Walker, to be sure that they have not mistaken the throes of national parturition for the convulsions of usurpation and violence.

[For the Louisville Journal.] MATTIES GRAVE.

Far away from the mother who smiled o'er her childhood

Where the shades of proud pine-trees are shed
'Mid the sweet, loving blossoms that mourn in the wild-All alone rests the beautiful dead!

Many birds with wild wings, in the twilight and starlight, Come to sing o'er the place of her sleep; And the angels far off in the blue halls of midnight Watch above her when shadows grow deep.

Oh! 'tls sad for the young and the lovely to leave us And come not again through long years, Though the thought of their absence should hannt us and grieve us

As we call them with wildness and tears,

But blest is the sleep that may bring no dark dreaming, And we sigh for that clime where we dwell. Far away past the stars and the sunset's bright gleaming, When the spirit has murmured—farewell.

Oh! she'll rest on, ave though the world may seem lonely Og: she is rest on, aye mongh the world may seem to.

To all those once watched by her side;

Aud one mourner's young spirit will long for her only

As the sad wind sighs o'er his bride.

But ere long all the loved of her bosom may meet her In that Home where we part nevermore; And angels will smile as friends hasten to greet her

'Mid the light of a sorrowless shore!

REV. DR. EVARTS'S LECTURE.-The inclemency of the weather last evening prevented as large an attendance at the lecture of Rev. Dr. Evarts, before the Young Men's Association, as under other circumstances would have been present. The lecture was a series of graphic views of French society and manuers, Paris being considered as the exemplar of the nation. There was nothing tame or spiritless in the matter or manner of the Rev. Dr. E. Indeed, there never is in anything that he undertakes to do or say. He is always pungent, nervous, spirited, and scarce ever fails to prove instructive and inter-

He took a much more favorable view of the gay mistress of the fashionable world, and the great empire of which it is the capital, than is customary, erpecially with gentlemen of his cloth. There was indeed a peculiar hopefulness characterizing the language and style of the lecturer, when he alluded to the prospects of France, and what Providence would doubtless accomplish through the instrumentality of

Dr. Evarts spent much time while abroad in Paris, and were he so disposed, or did he possess the leisure, could interest our citizens in not merely one,

A WONDER IN DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES .- We received some weeks since from the maker, Miss Margaret Jane Baird, of Nelson county, a very unexampled curiosity in the department of domestic manufactures. Through no lack of courtesy to the lady have we deferred noticing this wonder, but that we might be enabled to consult concerning i with all our lady friends, and the various sewing circles. Well, we have their verdict, and it is unaninnous-in praise of the skill, ingenuity, patience and geuius of Miss Baird. With one set of knitting needles she has made at one and the same time three distinct stockings, which while they are made at once are detached. It is equivalent to a treble manufacture, and how the feat was accomplished is a profound mystery to us.

Now-a-days it is rare, such is the degeneracy of the times, to find a young lady who can knit at all, much less three stockings at once. We think Miss Baird deserves a premium as a model of female industry and skill.

OUR WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE-Report of the Congressional Investigating Committee .- We have received through our Washington correspondence a very full and interesting abstract of the testimony before the investigating committee of the House of Representatives. It reached us in advance of any publication at the East, and in order to make room for a document of so much importance and such general interest, we have been forced to exclude a variety of news, local matters, &c.

The report presents a very dark picture of the corthority at Washington, and develops the swindling manner in which much of the public legislation is transacted.

To-day the House acts upon the report. In justhese corrupt members.

ADAMS EXPRESS-MR. WM. N. MILLER.-We have of late been repeatedly placed under obligations by the agent of the Adams Express Company at Cairo, who is Mr. Win. N. Miller, formerly of this city. The office at Cairo is one of vast importance to the business community, and we take no ordinary pleasure in testifying to the regularity, promptuess, carefulness, and integrity with which its affairs are managed by the head of the establishment, Mr. M. He combines all the requisites for the post, and is as fast and safe a man as can be found in the service of the Adams company.

THE CABINET.—The Cincinnati Enquirer says it has the most unquestionable authority for stating that Mr. Bright has been tendered, and has accepted, munitles on every hand-iu India, in Southern the position of Secretary of the Interior Department RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river was rising slowly last evening with 5 feet water on the falls. It rained nearly all the evening and the indications last night were that it would continue.

The river was swelling, at Cincinnati yesterday and it was supposed that it would rise there at least 5 feet, which will make about 7 feet on the falls. For New Orleans. - The fine steamer Moses Me-Lellan, Capt. Catterlin, will leave for New Orleans

We understand that Capt. Wison has retired from the desk of the Northerner, and that our gallant townsman, Mr. Nelson Shields will preside at it.

For Memphis. - The regular packet Northerner, Capt. Smith, leaves for Memphis this evening. She has splendid accommodations. The Northerner arrived last evening, and to her attentive elerk, Mr. Archer, we are indebted for Memphis papers of Saturday, and copies of the manifest and memoran-

New Steamer. - The J. B. Ford, Capt. List's new boat, arrived from Wheeling last evening. She is a sternwheeler and is to run in this trade as a regular packet. She has great capacity for carrying freight and accommodations for a limited number of passengers. She leaves for Wheeling this even-

Capt. Barrow's splendid new steamer Silverheels left for Cincinnati last evening where she will load for the Missouri river. Our Missouri river friends must look out for their laurels, as the knowing ones are consident that she can show her heels to any craft in that muddy stream.

The R. J. Ward .- This magnificent steamer tele graphed from Evansville yesterday that she would be at Portland at 4 o'clock this morning. She will leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening. The fine steamer Wm. Dixon, Capt. Baugh, is up for the Tennessee river, and the W. A. Eaves for Green river. The Diamond is hourly expected from Nash ville.

The steamer Prairie Rose has been sold to parties in St. Louis for $14,000.

The new steamer Meteor, which was built here for the Missouri river, will be down from Wheeling today, bound for St. Louis. She is an elegant boat. The Meteor is comparatively, light drawing only four feet three inches with about 350 tons.

The steamer S. P. Hibbard, from Pittsburg, for Cincinnati run into the bank a few miles below Wheeling in a fog on Saturday night, and knocked down both chimneys and tore of her pilot-house.

The following we take from the Memphis Bulletin of Sunday:

There was a considerable storm of wind and rain on the river night before last, but we have heard of no material damage sustained. The Pete Whetstone sunk a flatboat, some say a barge, containing a valuable cargo.

PORTLAND, Feb. 24, 9, P. M. The Newcomb left at 8 o'clock, the Moses Mc-Lellan and the Northerner are the only boats now at the wharf.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION .- The Albany States man learns that the New York Central Railroad Company repudiate all demands arising from damages done to goods in transitu or awaiting delivery in their warehouses in that city by the freshet. The amount of loss of this description is understood to be between $100,000 and $200,000. The owners have been notified of the condition of their property, and directions asked as to what disposition shall be made of it. No doubt the owners of property in this situation will look to the railroad company for damages, and since the company is prepared to resist such claims, we shall probably have the question of liability decided by the courts. The law holds the co liable for damages done to pernot apply to property.

ARREST OF AN OLD OFFENDER .- Yesterday officers Phelps and Tiller arrested a man named Ed. Clarke, who is well known in our police annals. 1le had obtained a horse and buggy from Mr. Bryant, on Jefferson street, for the avowed purpose of going to the Sulphur Well. But he changed his course. and was found in the act of crossing the river, when arrested. Upon his person he had a variety of documents, and among them a forged check for $55 on A. D. Hunt & Co.

OUR CUSTOM HOUSE.—This fine building is approaching completion and will be ready for the Post Office and the Surveyor of the Port by September next. Our Washington correspondent advises us of the appropriation of the additional sum of $40,000 for its construction; also of $10,000 to the Marine Hospital at Paducah.

THE HOG CHOP .- The Cincinnati Price-Current ublishes full returns of the yield of the hog crop in the West, and it shows a falling off on last year of 311/2 8 cent. on the number and weight. The falling off in lard is much larger.

A fire occurred last night some two or three miles out in the country, due south of Third street, ruption existing among functionaries high in au- and was probably in the neighborhood of the fire hat occurred on Sunday night last.

SUICIDE AND ATTEMPTED MURDER.-In Cincin nati on Monday, a Prussian named Michael Gold tice to its own reputation it should purge itself of arose from his bed, stabbed his wife, inflicting a dangerous wound, and then cut his own throat,

THE NICARAGUA NEWS UY THE TEXAS.—The New Orleans Picayune, of last Wednesday, has the following details of news from Nicaragua, received by the steamship Texas:

The New the amendment was adopted respecting suffrage to citizens of the United States.

Mr. Biggs earnestly argued in favor of retaining the amendment.

Mr. Brown said the other day the Senate by de-Orleans Picayune, of last Wednesday, has the following details of news from Nicaragua, received by the steamship Texas:

Col. Lockridge had been waiting for reinforce-ments and guns, which he had received; and on the 6th he attacked the enemy on the San Juan river, ments and guns, when he had received; and on the 6th he attacked the enemy on the San Juan river, at the point at the mouth, where, after a sharp engagement with 300 of the enemy, mostly Costa Ricans, he succeeded in ronting them and taking possession of the point. The enemy fled in all directions. Some jumped into the river, and others fled to the woods. Loss of the enemy about 100 killed and wounded; that of the Nicaraguan forces four killed and one wounded, including Col. Rudler and Major Ellis, who were slightly wounded.

The point thus gained is the most important one at the mouth of the Serapiqui river, situated close to the others. The enemy still occupied the other side, while Col. Lockridge was deterred from attacking it for want of the means of crossing the river; the machinery of the small steamer having given out. She was taken to Punta Arenas, repaired, and again sent up the river, to assist the troops in taking the opposite point. This is an important point, as the enemy have concentrated their river forces here, and this once taken, the others will be easily acquired.

The Costa Ricans, at this point, would be in a de-

The Costa Ricans, at this point, would be in a decidedly bad fix, in case of defeat, as retreat would be difficult, and if at all, through almost impenetrabe difficult, and if at all, through almost impenetra-ble woods. From the superior position of the Nica-raguan forces, it was expected that at the next attack they would completely annihilate the enemy. Col. Lockridge was quite sanguine in the opinion that he would have entire possession of the river in one week. His whole force was about 480 men. The news from Geu. Walker is to the 3d instant. That by the Orizaba was important. The enemy had again appeared near Rivas, at a place called Obragi, under Gen. Canas. Gen. Walker ordered two companies, one of rilles and one of rangers, to two companies, one of rilles and one of rangers, to march against them. After twenty-four hours skirmishing, the enemy retreated, Walker's forces withdrawing to Rivas. The loss of the enemy was about 100, that of the Nicaraguans 5, including

Capt. Phinney.

On the 28th ult., Gen. Henningsen, with a force of 400 men, marched against 1,500 of the enemy, concentrated at St. George, and succeeded in driving them from their position with great slaughter, when he received orders to return to Rivas. The loss of the enemy was about 200 killed and 400 wounded, that of the Nicarattana 16 killed and 33 wounded the enemy was about 200 kmed and 400 wounded, including among the latter Col. Jaquess (of New Orleans), Maj. Dusenberry, and Lieut Steel.

Walker's whole force is 1,300 men, of whom 1100 were lit for duty. His troops are in better health than they have been at any time during the war, and are in excellent spirits; and do not doubt their ability to conquer any force that can be brought against them. He has ammunition and provisions against them. Il for three months.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEB. 25, 1857.

MEDICAL COMMENCEMENT .- The commencement in the Medical Department of Transylvania University, Lexington, will take place in the Medical Hall on Friday evening next, when the degree of M. D. will be conferred upon the graduates. Prof. Peter will deliver the valedictory.

FIRE IN THE COUNTY .- The fire about midnight, Tuesday, destroyed the residence of Mr. Hillary Hardin, on the Seventh street plank road, about six miles from the city. It was a new and handsome cottage, and will prove a serious loss to the proprietor.

A fellow who signs himself B. H. G., and is one Gotthelf, the Rabbi of the Jewish congregation in this city, makes an nnwarrantable attack on me in a city paper. The occasion of the attack is a paragraph in the police report of the Journal a few days ago, with which I had nothing to do, and for which the writer of it will answer satisfactorily. I have no personal acquaintance with Gotthelf. The familiarity with which he speaks of me and his audacity in mentioning a near and dear relative of mine shows him to be a contemptible puppy, unworthy to be the leader of a congregation of Jews or Gentiles and beneath the notice of a geutleman.

AN EXPLANATION .- In the report of the Police Proceedings of Saturday, as published in this paper, mention was made of the testimony in a case developing the practice of "certain parties" in this city, garnisheeing accounts, and resorting to other legal tricks without reference to the courts of justice. Ignoran' and malicious persons have attempted to constructhis mere statement of testimony into a reflection upon the integrity of our Jewish merchants. No such reflection was intended, and the same application of the facts might have been made to any other class of our mercantile community.

COVINGTON AND LEXINGTON RAILROAD BONDS. We clip the following from the Cincinnati Railroad

Record of last week: In bonds there has been an active business in Covington and Lexington 2d mortgage 7s at 661/26 671/4 and interest, closing at the latter price, an improvement of 11/4 3 cent. over last week's sales; recent purchases of these bonds have been taken for investment, and the market is but poorly supplied; holders now generally demand 70 and interest, at which price they are the most desirable security on the market.

INDIANA FREE BANKS .-- We copy the following from the Indianapolis Journal of Tuesday:

The issues of the Bank of North America, at Clinton, are discredited by our banks. The circulation of the bank is $15,720. The market value of the securities is $14,570—making an excess of circulation of $1,150, which is rather large on an aggregate circulation of $15,720.

The Bank of the Capitol, Indianapolis, Merchants' and Mechanics' Bank, New Albany, and Bank of Monticello, at Monticello, have signified their intention to go into liquidation. Each of these banks was organized under the act of 1852, and have not complied with the amended act of 1855.

The circulation of the Bank of the Capitol on the 23d of Lungary was $4.290, securities $4.250, av.

23d of January was $4,290, securities $4,950, excess of securities $660. It is the intention of this bank to wind up its business, as a bank of issue, at an early day.

Merchants' and Mechanics' Bank, New Albany, had a circulation on the 23d of January of $39,998. The market value of the securities is $38,500, excess of circulation $1,438. This excess is attributable, we presume, to carelessness in the Auditor's office, prior to the passage of the amended beneficiary act of 1855.

banking act of 1855.

The Bank of Monticello, on the 23d of January, had a circulation of $9,500—the market value of the securities was $9,300—nuaking an excess of circulation of $200. The excess is attributable, we presume, to the same cause as we mention above. Both of these banks will redeem every dollar of their circulation as fast as presented. The Mer-Both of these banks will redeem every dollar of their circulation as fast as presented. The Mer-chants' and Mechanics' Bank redeems at its own counter—the Bank of Monticello at the Lafayette Branch of the Bank of the State of Indiana.

The Savings Bank. Connersville, has an ex of securities, over its circulation, in the Auditor's office of $590, but the issnes of the Bank are discredited on account of the existence of fraud in the circulation of notes from the engraved plates which are not known at the Auditor's office as genuine.

The report of the investigating committee of the Legislature, in their researches into the condition of Free Banks, shows them to be, generally, in a healthy state.

A letter from New York says:

Some excitement is created by the account of a "marriage in high life," intimating that Mr. S. K., an habitue of the Fifth avenue, has espoused a spring chicken only fourteen years old, who has $250,000 in her own right. The child alluded to is Miss Lorillard, whose clopement from Miss Haine's boarding school has become public. The news of Enoch Train's failure, Boston, created a great sensation in business circles yesterday af-ternoon—especially among the shipping inerchants of South street, who are supposed to be largely interested in the assets.

A great deal was said in the newspapers, some time since, about the flight of a certain young lady, from the Convent of the Sisters of Mercy. To-day it is given out that said young lady got married yesterday. Her maiden name was Pauline Costar.

SINGULAR OBITUALLY. - The following singular obituary notice appears in the Athens (Ga.) Messen-

He was the father of eleven sons—five of the sons having married five sisters. He had also one hundred and eighty-nine great grandchildren; and at his funeral, two weeks ago last Sabbath, two horses were stung to death by bees and another came very near losing his life by the same.

EXTENSIVE SWINDLING OPERATIONS.—A man calling himself Thomas C. Gillman negotiated forged drafts to the amount of some $16,000 upon the different banks in Milwaukee, some fee days since, and the swindle was not discovered until after the fellow had been gone with the "cash," for a number of days, "to parts unknown." The drafts were signed by William Breck, broker, of Rochester, N. Y., where Gillman is well known; and, on the strength of their acquaintance with him, several Rochester men Milwaukee, became his references, which rotal. different banks in Milwaukee, some fee days since in Milwaukee became his references, which materially facilitated the drafts upon the banks. He represented that he was going to buy lauds in Minne-

Besides the $16,000 which he swindled the Milwaukee banks out of, it is stated that he got $30,000 in a like manner in this city, and a Milwaukee paper states that "some, who know a thing or two, compute the gross amount of the entire swindling transaction, in different cities at the West, at $150,000 or even higher." The same paper states that Gillman arrived there on the 11th inst., got his drafts cashed, attended the Masquerade at "the Albany" in the evening—seeming to enjoy himself very much—and left by the Lake Shore Railroad, on the afternoon of the 12th. afternoon of the 12th.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF MAKING COFF E .- A few days ago we alluded to a new coffee and tea boiler, invented by Dr. Ray, of Indiana. We publish below that portion of the Doctor's article on the preparation of tea and coffee to which we then alluded. There is nothing in the culinary art so difficult as that of rousting coffee; and perhaps we cannot better serve the interests of our readers, who are house keepers, than by publishing it in full.

We agree with the Doctor in the sentiment, that, "although the black servants in the slave States and the hired girls in the free States may do the kitchen work, yet the good lady of the house is always held personally responsible for the quality of the tea aud coffee served at her table:"

personally responsible for the quality of the tea and coffee served at her table:"

Remarks Amout Roasting Coffee. When coffee that has been burned in roasting. Alcoholic liquors are not so injurious to health as burned coffee. When coffee is burned black, an acrid poison is generated which is very injurious to the digestive faculities; and this has produced an impression spon the usinds of many that all coffee is unwholesome; such, however, is not the fact. Coffee and tea both, when properly made, are as consistent with health as "milk and minds." If the coffee is burned black, the skin of the grain is thus destroyed, and the coffee of is all expelled during the process of roasting. In this case if ought to be thrown away, as unit for nee. On the other hand, if the leat is so inederate as not to brown the coffee, the skin of the grain becomes dry, spilis open, and allows the oil to evaporate before the roasting is completed. If, however, the vessel is as hot at the beginning as the grain will bear without burning, and the temperature is reduced afterwards to a less degree, so as to require one or two hours in the roasting, it makes a richer coffee.

If the roasting is completed. If, however, the vessel is as hot at the beginning as the grain will bear without burning, and the temperature is reduced afterwards to a less degree, so as to require one or two hours in the roasting, it makes a richer coffee.

If the roasting is continued after the coffee becomes brittle, the gluey-like substances which constitute the skin lose their water of crystalization, by which the skin has been burned by too much heat, or dried in the beginning with a temperature too low to cause the albuminous substances to congulate. But if the coffee is first washed clean, and it must be washed whether it seems dirty or not, so as to saturate the grain the wild to substances of the skin—just as the white of an egg congulates by boiling. Thus like skin of the grain is rendered imporous, so as to retain the coffee of the grain is rendered imp

THE BURDELL CASE .- The New York papers are yet occapied with theories, surmises, and rumors in regard to the New York murder case, but seem quite hopelessly in the fog as to the guilty party or partie. hopelessly in the fog as to the guilty party or partie.

On Thesday last, Mr. Lasalle, the well known editor of the Courrier des Etats Unis, called on Judge Capron, and told him that he dad learned that on the morning after the murder a boy took a pair of gray pantaloons, similar to the missing ones of Eckel, to the man in Grand street who has been accustomed for some time past to clean: Mr. Eckel's clothes—that those pants were stained with blood—that the clothes-cleaner in question had often removed from Mr. Eckel's clothes blood-stains contracted in his business, but that the blood on these pants had been proved to be human blood.

The New York Express learns that Dr. Parmale testified before the grand jury to noticing the smell of burning wool at 31 Bond street on the night in question. Dr. l'armalee lodged opposite Mrs. Cunningham's room, and, on the night of the murder, there were persons in that room—and a strange and peculiar light—strange and peculiar from its fluttering and flickering character—now being brilliant—as if something were thrown on to burn, and then dark, or nearly dark—as if the fire had been extinguished. The light was not that of a candle or gas, but as of paper or something as luminous. In that but as of paper or something as luminous. In that room he (Dr. P.) had often seen a man and a woman, now known by him to be Mrs. Cunningham and Mr. Eckel—but not then so known—who, from their intimacy, he had no doubt were man and wife.

The whereabout of Dr. Burdell at 10½ o'clock on the night of the murder is now ascertained to have been corner of Broadway and Bond street. A private watchman testifies that at that hour he shook hands with him there.

The Herald says: The proceedings before the Grand Jury in the Burdell murder case are, of course, kept a profound secret; but still enough has leaked out to show that the testimony adduced on Wednesday was unusually interesting and develops several new facts from witnesses who feared to appear before the Coroner, as they feared imprisonment if they volunteered their evidence. Two of the best policemen at the Chief's office have been deputised to hunt up facts that have a bearing on this mysterious case, and they have been enabled to furnish several important witnesses to the Grand Jury, and, besides, have discovered a number of circumstances that develop an entirely new and startling theory of the murder, and puts a different phase on the whole matter.

The police are on the track of another party who but, as it might defeat the ends of justice, we refrain from publishing the facts, until the evidence is sufficiently strong to arrest the suspected person. The Post has the affidavit of Dr. Spicer, the former business partner of Dr. Burdell, to the latter's coufession to him of his marriage with Mrs. Cunningham Cunniugham.

THE OHIO RIVER DEFENDED. - The Parkersburg Gazette notices the fact that of late years it has become vulgarly fashionable to make that noble stream—the Ohio, the queen of waters—an object of contumely and reproach. From the day when that morose individual, Randolph of Roanoke, dethat morose individual, kandoljin of Roanoke, de-clared that the Ohio river was of no account, sim-ply because it was "frozen up one half the year and dried up the other," there have been no lack of in-dividuals whose malignant disposition prompted them not only to repeat the slander, but even to in-vent others equally untrue. It is pleasant to reflect, however, that these injurious revilings of our lovely stream are near an end, and that a champion of her fair fame has recently appeared in the person of oue Capt. Dash, of the steamer "G'lang," whose defence or manifesto of the Ohio river we subjoin

See here, folks—all you along shore—you've been making a mighty fuss about this 'cre river lately—now, havn't you? Well you llave, and pretty people you are—to strike a body when she's down. But she ain't down now; no, like "truth skrushed to yearth," she's riz ayam—her back's up, she's riled and won't stand your cussing and damming no longer. Dam this majestic rivulet—what for? For some water, eh? What do you want with water? have all the doggeries gin out, and all the distilleries gone dry? No, but you want a little water to mix with your liquors—do you? Well, wait till it rains—the limpid waves of the Ohio don't flow to make grog. But you want more water for boats—to trade and travel on—is that it? Pitiful pretext!

The river was up and water plenty; when your traders and travelers left it, and sought other routes—many of them seeking railroads to their everlast— See here, folks-all you along shore-you've been raders and travelers left it, and songht other routes —many of them seeking railroads to their everlasting destruction. The river is up now, and what are you going to do about it? Ship your freight, are you? Why, all the freight between Old Pitt and the mouth, wouldn't keep the Ohio going two weeks—no more it wouldn't. Do you expect this here stream to hump itself all the time for your here stream to hump itself all the time for your special accommodation? If you do, she don't and won't—it wouldn't pay—too much waste of water. And you railroad men—you have been making an all-fired rumpus about the "state and condition" of the river—for what? The river riz—now what is your "state and condition?" Where is all that freight, "for ports below," you've been talking about—hey? Are you "froze up" and "in a tight place," too? If so, why don't you liquidate like the river, and bring your freight along? I round to for a reply.

Learned Ignorance.—When the committee of the French Academy were employed in preparing the well-known Academy Dictionary, Cuvier, the celebrated naturalist, came one day into the room where they were holding a session. "Glad to see you, Monsieur Cuvier," said one of the forty; "we have just finished a definition which we think quite satisfactory, but upon which we would like to have your opiuion. We have been defining the word crab, and have explained it thus: Crab, a small red fish, which walks backward." "Perfect, gentlemen," said Cuvier; "only I will make one small observation in natural history. The crab is not a fish, it is not red, and it does not walk backwards! With these exceptions, your definition is excellent." these exceptions, your definition is excellent."

J., was vesterday acquitted on a verdict of 'Not Guilty' returned by the jury."

The following is a specimen of a thousand testimonials, voluntarily offered during the last week, in favor of Porter's Oriental Life Liuiment:

Dr. R. D. Porter—
Sir: Having been induced to purchase several bottles of your Oriental Life Liniment, by the many valuable recipes which you publish, I was persuaded to give it a trial in frost-bites and fresh cuts and wonnds, which I found essentially beneficial. My brother has also tried it in diseases of horses one case where the left hip was shrinking away, producing stiffness of the entire limb, rendering the animal almost useless—has used but one bottle and part of a second, and assured me it had almost effected a cure. I have no hesitancy in recommending it, and believe it is a valuable remedy in diss attending man or beast, for which yo to the public.

THE CHURCH AND THE SCHOOLS .- It has grown nto a custom with some branches of the Christian Chnrch to observe the last Thursday of February. every year, as a season of prayer for the divine blessing on the young and on schools and seminaries of learning. In compliance with this usage there will be public service in the First Presbyterian Church to-morrow (Thursday) morning at 11 o'clock, which all who take an interest in the object are invited to attend. Sermon by Rev. Dr. Halsey.

Valentines! Valentines!

A TIMELY HINT.—Secure your Valentines carly a TALBOT'S, 98 Fourth street. That's the place.

The time is at hand when all over the land,
By steam Cupids run on a rail,
Tender missives will fly, and fair maldens, though shy,
Will anxiously wait for the mail.
This time of the year pretty girls will be freer
To tell their heart's feeling in rhyme,
And the sexee will speak, both the strong and the weak,
Through Love's interpreter, St. Valentine.

Through Love's interpreter, Sr. Ancheme.

Let old fogies innwed, with a shake of the head,
Say the custom is vulgar and low.

"Young America" goes for fununder the rose,
And each girl hopes to hear from her beau.
Each friend that one meetstalks of funny pictured sheets.
Takes one's arm and shouts "Come along, Jake,
Let us hasten and choose rich and rare billet doux
From the matchless collection at store 95."

Such delicions designs—such original lines,
Isoth comic and tender and true,
Never came into play since on Valentine's day
Human doves tried to bill and to coo.

[From our Washington correspondent.]
REPORT

CORRUPTION INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE. The following is an abstract of the testimony taken by the corruption investigating committee, which will be read with interest:

which will be read with interest:

James R. Sweeney, of Watertown, N. Y., an ex-messenger of the House of Representatives, was asked by Mr. Orr (in the committee) whether he knew of his own knowledge of "any attempt of any member of Congress to obtain compensation for votes fiven or to be given upon any measure now pending or that has been pending during the present Congress."

The witness said he knew of a case in which a member agreed to get a bill or project through the House for a certain amount of money—a book relating to the pension and beauty land laws, by Capt. Triplett, of Washington.

When he was asked the name of the member, he said he preferred that the committee should relave him from answerine the question, presuming that they could get the name from some other witness.

In stating the circumstances of this case, Mr. Sweeney produced the following paper:

"The clerk of the House of Representatives will pay to "The clerk of the House of Representatives will pay to J. R. Sweeney out of the appropriation in behalf of me for certain copies of my work on the pension, bonnty land, and other laws, passed at this session of Congress, the sum of fourteen thousand five hundred dollars ($14,500), for which this shall be the receipt.

"August, 1856.

"August, 1866. F. F. C. TRIPLETT."

The witness, in answer to the question, what was to he done with this sum after he bad collected it from the clerk, said that there was a misunderstanding upon that subject, and, as he supposed there would be conflicting testimony upon it, he desired to have the question postponed for the present.

He said, nowever, that this contract, not the written one, but the contract, was entered into in his presence between the author of that work and the member of Congress. At the time no writing was made; figuring was done. At a subsequent day the witness was requested to procure that writing. He was asked to get it from Mr. Triplett.

By Mr. Orr. By which party?

Witness. By the member.

By Mr. Orr. Then you applied to Mr. Triplett for it?

Witness. Yes, sir, he gave it to me. I was requested to take ith my own name. I repeat, that it making these statements I do not disclaim having an Interest in the measure. I shingly disclaim baving any pecuniary interest in that paper.

By Mr. Orr. Who was the member with whom this con-measure. I shaply disclaim baving any pecuniary interest in that paper.

By Mr. Orr. Who was the member with whom this contract was entered into in your presence?

Witness. Am I bound to answer the question directly? Ily Mr. Orr. It is the opinion of every member of the committee that you are required to answer the question; and if the decision of the Supreme Court is worth anything, we are fortified by that. We require you to answer the question.

Witness. Hon. Wm. A. Gilbert.
The witness subsequently stated that he did not know that he was instructed in so many words to pay the money thing, we are fortified by that. We require yon to answer the question.

Witness. Hon. Wm. A. Gilbert.

The witness subsequently stated that he did not know that he was instructed in so many words to pay the money to anybody.

By Mr. Orr. Then it was the understanding that it was to be paid to Mr. Gilbert by you?

Witness. That was the understanding at the interview to which I have referred. As I have stated, I was not called on afterwards to pay it to anybody.

And at another stage of the examination he said he had no distinct recollection, at this time, of hearing any other member, or of hearing Mr. Gilbert, in the presence of any other member, say that they were interested in the bargain to which he had referred.

By Mr. Davis. Have you any information going to show that any member of Congress has received money or land, or other valuable consideration, for the vote given by him on any measure pending or that has been pending before the Mr. Gilbert.

By the Chairman. The committee as gentlemen and as lawyers whether I am bound to answer that question?

By the Chairman. The committee are unanimously of the opinion that you are.

Witness. Then I answer that I have been told by a member of Gougrees that he received a certain amount for his influence in the passage of the Iowa Railroad hill.

Br Mr. Orr. Who was the member?

Witness. Hon. William A. Gilbert.

In reply to the interroratory, "What was the amount," the witness replied, "I do not know whether he received this or not. He said to me that he received seven equare miles of land and some little stock." The negotiation, according to his impression, was made with Mr. Chase, an examenber of Congress from New York. The witness which to state, under oath, that there was no arrangement between Mr. Gilbert and himself by which he was to be involved in the matter. Whatever councion by had with the matter was entered into in confidence as a matter of accommodation for other parties." In no other way than that had he any interest, except what was between the autho now and believe.

By Mr. Orr. Did you communicate this to the claimant r to any other person?

The transport of transport of the transport of tran man ontside.

F. F. C. Triplett, being sworn, said he had "never approached any member upon any subject with an improper procedure any memory proposition."

By Mr. Orr. Have you been brought in contact with any member in that connection?

Witness, I have. I suppose there is nobody who knows the organization of Congress who expects to carry anything through it merely from love of justice.

By Mr. Orr. Is that the general reputation of Congress.

By Mr. Off, is that is the general reputation of Congress.

Witness. That is the general reputation of Congress.

During the examination of this witness in relation to his order on the clerk for $41.500, in the event of the pursuase of a resolution for the purchase of his book, he said he received a message from a member of Congress that he desired to be introduced to him, and to see him in reference to this hook project.

cedwed a message from a member of Congress that he desired to be introduced to him, and to see him in reference to this book project.

Mr. Otr. Was it your impression when Mr. Sweeney made application to you for the writing, that it was made in consequence of anything that bad passed between him and the member; in other words, that his application was based upon an interview with the member?

Witness. That was my impression; though the member never told me so. I do not know that he and I ever lad a conversation about that at all. The truth is, that Mr. Sweeney came to me originally upon the subject. He knew all about the matter from the first. I supposed that he was a triend of the party, and that if I paid bim it would be satisfactory to the party.

The witness hesitated to give the name of the member, but the committee manimonsly decided that he was bound to answer the luterrogatory.

The witness hesitated to give the name of the member of the House, but this was the only thing that seemed like a definite understanding with a member."

The witness further stated that another member of Congress had conversed with line about the book, "the tenor of which was based upon the idea of receiving a part" of the contract; and he recollected that, on one occasion, the member asked him, in the event of their having to distribute more money than they lad contemplated, whether he (Triplett) would not do what was right, or something of that sort.

ort. stion by Mr. Orr. What was the name of the mem-he (Triplett) would not do what was right, or something of that sort.

Question by Mr. Orr. What was the name of the member?

Witness. Dr. Welch, of Connectient.
On Tucaday, Feb. 3, 1857, the Hon. W. A. Gilbert appeared before the committee, who informed him that they had adopted the rule of allowing any gentleman who might be implicated to make such statements as he might desire to make, either under oath or without, at his option; but the committee would not regard him as a witness.

Mr. Gilbert replied that, for his own vindication, he should prefer to make his statement under oath.

Ifon. W. W. Welch was present during the foregoing conversation with Mr. Gilbert, and was informed that the committee would take the same course in respect to him.

Mr. Wich on the 4th of February addressed a statement to the committee, in which he says he reported the bil for the relief of Rozana kinusal upon its merits only. "I interly deny," he continues, "that I ever stated to the witness Sweeney, or to any other person, that it might be necessary to use any sum of money whatever for the procuring of such report." As to Triplett's testimony, he says that "I never understood from Triplet or any other person that myself or any other member of Congress would receive any pecuniary benefit from it whatever. No language used by me to Mr. Triplett could have justly implied such a thing, whatever construction he might putupon it, for I repeat no such thing was hunty mind. I had several conversations with him upon the subject of his book, and no doubt expressed, what I felt, a desire that he night be remnuerated for his labor and that his book night be purchased for distribution, but nothing was further from my mind than any corrapt bargain or understanding with respect to it."

The Hon. Was A. Gilbert also appeared before the conshould prefer to make his statement under oath. How. W. Welch was present during the foregoing conversation with Mr. Gilbert, and was informed that the committee would take the same course in respect to him. Mr. Welch on the 4th of February addressed a statement to the committee, in which he says he reported the bild for the relief of Roxana kindsall upon its merits only. "I neterly deony," he continues, "that I ever stated to the necessary to use any sum of money whatever for the procuring of such report." As to Triplett's testimony, he says that "I never understood from Triplet to rany other person that myself or any other member of Congress would receive any pecuniary benefit from it whatever. Not language used by me to Mr. Triplett eould have justly implied such a thing, whatever construction he might put upon it, for I repeat no such thing was further from my mind than any corrant bargain or understanding with respect to it."

The Hon. Wm. A. Gilbert also appeared before the committee on the same day and submitted a statement under each, in the course of which he says, "No agreement was made with me by Mr. Triplett, Sweeney, or any other person, whereby I was to have, or did expect to have, any benefit from the passace of the (book) resolution. I never new, of, or had the remotest idea of, the existence of the writing or order until after it was produced before the committee.

He thought this was about the time of the passage of the Wiscansin bill, but he did not know whether Mr. Matteson bad any interest in that bill. Mr. Matteson did not name any particular bill or location.

William C. Johnson, of Utica, New York, sworn. Said he was the President of the Des Moines Navigation and Railroad Company, of the State of Iowa. He gave a long account of the listory of the company; and replied that he had heard rumors but had no knowledge that any agreement or arrangement had been entered into by himself or any other member of the company, with any members of Congress, or with any other persons, directly or indirectly, for the benefit of any member of Congress, by which such members of Congress were to receive any vulnable comideration for their aid in carrying through a bill for the benefit of the company.

By Mr. Orr. Have you received any communication from any member or members of Congress, or any communication written, as they allege, by the authority or sanction of any member or members of Congress, with reference to the passage of this bill?

Wituess. One only, from Orbinus B. Matteson. It was signed "O. Bell." It was the handwriting of Mr. Matteson and not denied by him. It was franked by Mr. Matteson to the witness. After the existence of the letter became public, the witness says, he avoided, as much as possible, having intercourse with him.

Henry A. Daulels, sworm. Says that he resides in Utica, New York, and produced the following copy of the paper referred to:

(Private.)

DEAR SIR—The committee in our house have agreed to report your resolution in Minnesota to 272,000 acres, or as you wished it, but there is much trouble in the way. Some outsiders make nischief. Are you willing to let your fourth of the factory be cut up and used to carry it through, in addition to what Stryker arranged? I can have some agent promise outsiders stock in a new lactory. Let me know without fail by return mail.

Truly, O. BELL.

Truly, O. Johnson, Esq.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson (who is the counsel for the Des-Moines Navigation and Isairroad Company, of the State of lows), having been sworn, testified, among other things, "that some eight or ten days before the adjournment of the first session of the present Congress, while I happened to be in the Honse of Representatives, Mr. O. B. Matteson, of New York, and a member from that State, asked me where the president of the DesMoines Company, Mr. W. C. Johnson, was. I told him I thought he had left the city; that I had not seen him for several days. He then expressed very great surprise at his having left the city, and said he nunt come back; that he was sorry to tell me, but so was the fact, that there were from twenty to thirly—I am not sure as to unmbers—but I am sure that it was either twenty or thirty members of the House who had associated themselves together and pledged each to the other not to vote for any law or resolution granting money or lands, unless they were paid for it. I told him I could hardly believe it. I think the expression I need, for I was indignant, was that it was a 'd—d outrage.' He agreed with me, and was, as far as words and manner were concerned, as warm in denonucing it as I was. He said they were a set of d—d secondrels, but there they were, and neohoe could get anything of this sort through without them; that Johnson must have here $10,000 to carry this bill," etc.

John Stryker, of Rome, N. Y., a director and member of the exceutive committee of the company, testified that he made a drart in favor of Horace Greeley for $1,000; it was a retainer for counsel and advice in aid of procurring the passage of the bill for the benefit of the company. It was to be used cutirely in his discretion. The witness, three weeks ago, met Mr. Greeley in New York, and he told him that he had received the money, but that he had no personal interest in it. The witness underwent a long examination, saying, in reply to a question by Mr. Davis, "If th

MISCELLANEOUS TESTIMONY

MISCELLANEOUS TESTIMONY.

Hon, Henry J. Raymond, editor of the N. Y. Daily Times, testified that he had no personal knowledge of his own "that a corrupt organization of members of Congress and certain lobby agents at Washington has existed since early in the season of last year."

The knowledge there asserted was derived from information obtained from other parties. It was no personal knowledge of his own. He had no personal knowledge of any last or circumstance which would warrant the assertion. He had only such information at second-hand as left on his mind no doubt of the facts asserted. It was derived in part from the regular correspondent of the Times, Mr. Simonton. He had frequent talk with individuals other than Mr. Simonton about such matters, and had received from them at different times statements of things.

To Mr. Raymond's testimony, the committee affix the following.

llowing Note.—The answer of the witness to the last four ques Note.—The answer of the without the last four ques-tious rendered it unnecessary, in the opinion of the com-mittee, to enforce answers to preceding questions, which the wincess was reluctant to answer on the ground that, in doing so, he would violate confidence with the persons of whom he protessed to have information who had reposed in him. It is answers show that he could not, even if he violated the alleged confidence, state anything himself of give the name of any witness who bad any persona knowledge of facts that would be material to the investi-cation.

ring the present Congress, to which question be replied he had no interest in the deteat of any bill. He was further had no interest in the detest of any bill. He was further asked if he was interested in the Minnevota bill, and replied that he had taken an interest in bills and urged their passage. Being questioned closely on this subject, he denied the right of the committee (as he was advised by counsel) to inquire into the private dealings with persons other than members of Congress. He did not know of corrupt combinations, nor did he ever pretend to have control over votes of members of Congress. There were some things he did not recollect, when questioned relative to them.

some thiugs he did not recollect, when questioned relative to them.

Elijah Kingman, a correspondent of newspapers, knew of no corrupt combinations. He had only seen it charged, and this had been the case for twenty years.

Daniel Breed, Assistant Examiner in the Patent Office, testified that the clerks therein were assessed two and a half per cent, but not for any member of Cougress. Capt. James Henry applied for the assessment. It was said to be in payment for an acent to explain the matter as an attorney to members of Congress, in order to seenre additional compensation, by a section incorporated in a bit at the last session of Congress.

II. Il. Babock, Superintendent of the House Folding Room, testified that he knew nothing about corruption.

nothing of a corrupt combination of members of Congress in that cennection.

George Harrington, having been connected with the New York tire bill, did not know of any member, directly or indirectly, interested in it. He had made no arrangement with maybody.

Rev. Geo. W. Samson designated Geo. Wood as the correspondent of the New York Recorder and Examiner, or New York Baptist, in which appeared a letter speaking of "a tariff of bribes on thirty members of Congress."

Mr. Wood testified that he had received his information from Gen. Tench Tilghman, of Maryland.

Gen. Tilghman was summoned, but it uppears that this gentheman could not come to Washington, owing to sickness, as certified by his physician.

Alex. H. Evans, one of the correspondents of the New York Herald, on being interrogated, said he knew nothing about corrupt combinations among members.

Joseph L. Chester was allike ignorant of such organizations.

Joseph L. Chester was alike ignorant of such organiza-tions.

Iligh Tyler, John W. Boyce, and Cornelius Wendell were severally interrogated as to whether corrupt means had been used to influence votes to procure the public printing, but they knew of no improper influences having been resorted to; and the last mentioned said he had had no complicity with members on that subject.

Hon. J. B. Cook, of Iowa, was interrogated about his knowledge of any corrupt combinations with a view to pro-cure the passage of land bills; but he had no information upon that subject.

Robert McCabe, of Iowa, was alike Ignorant, and knew of no nicuber of Congress who could be purchased by any amount of money, whatever.

L. M. Cross, of Nebraska, knew nothing upon the sub-ject.

receive any pecuniary consideration, or other benefit, if the resolution for the purchase of Triplett's book should be adopted.

It will be remarked that Mr. James W. Simonton wasby the action of the House ordered into close confinement for an alleged contempt of its authority; but after the passage of the bill more effectually to punish contempts, he was again produced before the committee, when the following question was propounded to him:

"Has any member of the present Congress said to you that certain measures pending before Congress oneth to pay, and that parties interested in them had the means to pay; that this individual needed money, and desired you to arrange the matter in such a way that if the measure passed he should receive pecuniary compensation?"

Mr. Simonton recognized this question as the one here tofore put to him, but in different hanguage, and proceeded to read from a paper in reply to it. He said he had used phraseology which conveyed a meaning which he did not design to convey.

Mr. Davis (of the committee), said this paper, thus prepared in advance, was irregular.

Mr. Simonton wasted to present it as a protest; but the committee declined to receive it as such.

After many questions and answers, which were of a conversational character, the committee desired a direct answer to the interregatory first put.

Mr. Simonton redied, as far as he could judge, log could not answer the question without explanation, and without criminating himself. He therefore respectfully asked leave to consult his counsel, who was at hand, in regard to what was due to himself to do under the circumstances.

Mr. Orr. You have seen the recent law passed by Congress?

Witness, I have,

what was due to himself to do under the circumstances.

Mr. Orr. You have seen the recent law passed by Congress?

Witness. I have.

Mr. Orr. In view of that iaw, do you swear that you apprehend that you cannot answer the question without criminating yourself?

Witness. I do apprehend, notwithstanding the law, if I answer the question without explanation, I may criminate myself.

Mr. Orr. You can qualify in any way you please.

The witness made a statement, and answered the question in the negative.

By Mr. Davis. Has any member of the present Congress stated to you that anybody interested in any measure betore Congress lad the means to pay?

Answer. I cannot state and have not intended to say heretofore, that any member has ever intimated to me any individual who had the means to pay under the circumstances related.

The examination continued during two hours and a half. In consequence of illness, the witness retired.

On a subsequent day, he appeared, when the following interrogatory was proposed:

By the Committee. Have you been solicted by any member of the present Congress, directly or indirectly, to to make any arrangement by which the member was to receive any valuable consideration for his support of any measure during the present Congress?

Witness. I cannot say under oath that I have, and never have intended to be understood so to meau.

Hon. O. B. Matteson. On the titb of February, this gentleman addressed a communication (date! "National flote!") to the committee, saying that he had been engaged in a secret inquiry calculated to affect his personal honor and character as a representative, whose rights and reputation are as dear to him as they could possibly be to his peeps. The inquiry, he says, was proupted against him by bitter enemies in his district, whose malignity has been sharpened by successive deleat. Anonymous and unprincipled informers bad combined to hist harder, and he further says that the meanest offender has a show of justice in a criminal court, while the case with regard to the acc merous witnesses were examined to prove, on one nev's testimony.

The testimony is exceedingly voluntinous, and a part of it was printed secretly in advance of its presentation to the House.
